SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

Several Important Articles to be Considered on the Evening of July 20—New Bridge and Sewer for Shawsheen Village Asked

A special town meeting which has as its principal business the consideration of the bill passed by the Legislature authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Shawsheen river on Haverhill street, will be held on Tuesday evening, July 20th at half-past seven.

The first two articles in the warrant concern this much-discussed bridge; the first being to see whether the town will accept the provisions of Chapter 475 of the Acts of 1920 relative to its construction under the direction of the County Commissioners, and the second to see if the town will raise $12,500 to meet its part of the costs authorizing the town treasurer to borrow the sum by issuing bonds or notes of the town.

Under the terms of the bill the County is required to pay half of the cost. William M. Wood, who, with others, including town officials, petitioned for the bridge has offered to contribute $10,000 toward Andover's share of the expense.

The third and fourth articles also have to do with improvements in Shawsheen Village. One calls for an appropriation of $40,000 for the extension of the sewerage system from Stimpson's bridge to Haverhill street, and the other for an appropriation of $400 for the improvement of the street-lighting system. The fifth article concerns two new

CELEBRATES FIRST MASS

Rev. Frank B. Remmes, a Local Boy, Assists for First Time at St. Augustine's Church

St. Augustine's church was crowded Sunday morning when Rev. Fr. Frank B. Remmes celebrated his first public solemn high mass and his family, relatives and friends and many of his fellow-townsmen were present. Assisting in the celebration were two other Andover boys, Rev. Walter Remmes, who is soon to be ordained to the priesthood and was sub-deacon, and Frank Boland, a classmate at Notre Dame, who was master of ceremonies.

Others assisting were Rev. Fr. Donahue, O. H. C., of South Bend, Indiana, as deacon, and Rev. P. J. Campbell, O. S. A., assistant at St. Augustine. Rev. Fr. Nugent preached the sermon and Rev. Fr. Lees of St. James's church, Harrison avenue, Boston, was in the sanctuary.

DR. ABBOTT CANDIDATE

Dr. Charles E. Abbott Announces That He Will be a Candidate for Representative

The following letter has been received from Dr. C. E. Abbott relative to his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Representative to the legislature from the Ninth Essex District.

To the Editor of the Townsman.

At the request of many long-time friends in Andover I have agreed to allow my name to be used as a candidate for Representative, seeking the Republican nomination in the coming primary.

I shall highly appreciate the aid and support of all those in Andover whose acquaintance I have prized during my entire lifetime, and whose interests I shall hope to still further aid if elected to the position of Representative from this district.

Thanking you for your willingness to publish this communication, I am,

Cordially yours,

CHARLES E. ABBOTT

A large audience assembled in the town hall Sunday evening for the union patriotic meeting addressed by two delegates to the International Council held last week in Boston; Rev. Alexander Grieve of Edinburgh, Scotland and Rev. Robert Hopkin of Denver, Colorado.

Professor Charles H. Forbes presided at the meeting and prayer was offered by the Rev. Newman Matthews of the West church. Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, Rev. Arthur H. Wheelock, Rev. F. A. Wilson and Rev. E. H. Prescott were also seated on the platform.

The South church quartet sang "America Triumphant" and the Junior choir of the Free church rendered "The Breaking Waves Dashed High".

Frederic G. Moore and Edwin G. Booth were accompanists.

Rev. Robert Hopkin, minister of the First Congregational Church of Denver, Colorado, was the first speaker and taking as his subject "Who is the Loyal American?" delivered a most excellent patriotic address. He characterized the loyal American as one who is true to the idea of democracy, who gives up his personal interest for the benefit of the group and makes his own life the medium through which loyalty of the highest type shall touch the lives of others.

During 1919 the total property loss by fire in the United States amounted to $390,000,000, according to the latest figures. This is $25,000,000 more than is paid to school teachers during the year.

Of the total fire loss, in the opinion of Underwriters, 87% was avoidable either wholly or in part.

Let Comparison Guide You

A Message from Cherry & Webb's

THE WONDERING BUYING-PUBLIC MAY WELL BE EXCUSED THEIR WONDERING IN FACE OF WHAT THEY READ, SEE AND HEAR.

They are told prices are falling and told prices are rising; they are lured to buy more by offers of interesting percentages of benefit; they are warned to buy less; they are counselled to do without; they are cheered and depressed in turn; and all they can be really sure of is that they need things and things are dear.

That Plan should be to spend what they can afford to spend to the best advantage.

To stop the reasonable circulation of money in a country is about as wise a policy as stopping the circulation of one's blood.

HOW THEN TO SPEND TO BEST ADVANTAGE?

Surely Not by buying goods whose sole appeal is lowness of price, for whether the fact be palatable or not, lowness of price means nothing more or less than lowness of quality, and what that means today is hardly worth wasting words upon. Surely not by buying in the old easy-going fashion, taking the first thing that comes at the first place that sells it.

HOW THEN?

By making your selection with greater care, by shopping with an open eye and unbiased mind, by taking a "good look around", and by comparing, comparing, comparing.

We, professed servants of the public must fare as we deserve. By all means let our worthiness come under new assessment, let the metals of our Quality, Value, Service be tested as never before. Difficulties show what men are; they also show what Businesses are. Cherry & Webb suggest that you COMPARE that you compare what you GET for what you pay in one place with what you get for what you pay in another.

Cherry & Webb Believe that a Brisk Campaign of Comparison is the Best Thing for Us All.

CHERRY & WEBB

What the Woodsman Sees

"You can always tell a trained woodsman from a tenderfoot, because the tenderfoot sees only the obvious things that are plainly evident, but the trained woodsman notices the little things that are unusual or out of the ordinary. For example, the tenderfoot walking through the woods will see a lot of trees that look all alike. The skilled woodsman will notice that one tree is bent in a peculiar shape or has a knob or burl on one side. When he sees that tree again he will recognize it and know he is on the right trail. The tenderfoot will be startled by the sound of two trees rubbing together or of bushes cracking with the wind. The woodsman recognizes these as ordinary sounds, but he hears the faintest snap of a twig, made by an animal stepping on it. The tenderfoot walking on a trail sees only the path in front of him, which looks all alike. The woodsman will notice the slightest mark in the trail that shows that some animal or person has passed before him, and he will be able to read these marks and tell the tale of what has happened. "The first thing for a scout to learn in stalking is to notice little things that are out of the ordinary and learn what they mean; to read the record that every living creature leaves behind him, telling the story of his life and doings." May Boys' Life

During the past few days several thousand former government employees have been looking for new places. Some of them have returned to their old homes but more are still in the city seeming to think that Uncle Sam owes them a position or a job. Now there is a great difference between a job and a position here in Washington. All jobs are not positions for the war jobs were jobs after all for the most part. Just jobs for doing a bit of work in a short space of time for a good large salary as salaries go. The position of the departments is usually filled by some person wholly competent and one willing to work for a salary and give in return an honest day's labor. Oh, yes, there are thousands of persons here holding positions. The jobless one is out now and it is good for all concerned. But there are many of them here now looking for work. They are particular, too. Some want large wages of $12.00 to $18.00 a year and as for work, well, that is to be considered. The clerks who are now seeking work for the most part "war workers" refuse to accept a mere place in an office, a store or even a bureau for a mere wage. It is rather trying to the man who needs help to be unable to get what he wants just because he cannot afford to pay for loafing and incompetence and powder and paint. Places are waiting here for help, but they will wait a long time at the present rate of speed if the war workers expect even one hundred a month for not over six (better say five) real hours a day of poor work at the best. A visit to the heads of any bureau will demonstrate the fact of this gross incompetence and now you will see that in most all cases the efficient clerk has been retained. Of course some of the great "pullers" are still on the job and managed to keep on, but for the most part the wholesale removals were made with efficiency always in view.

It seems a shame that at this time so many get the idea of the Government as a mere paying machine with nothing for value received. It hurts labor that wants to be honest and labor that is honest. The unions here are always after members but that is all. Numbers seem to count most with them but some are now taking the stand that efficiency should be the watchword of every union. Former Governor McCall of Massachusetts was appointed again the other day by the President as tariff commissioner. He was appointed first some time ago but the Senate refused to confirm him. That made the appointment void so Mr. Wilson appointed Mr. McCall a second time as a recess appointee. When an appointment is such as above, the man hold the office until the expiration of the session of Congress following his recess appointment. If confirmed he is of course in office, but if not confirmed, he must retire at the close of the session in question. Well, Mr. McCall was so appointed, but the commission did not arrive at his home town of Winchester, Mass., due to the excellence of the mails no doubt. Mr. McCall heard all about it from the papers, but he wanted something else, so he asked Secretary Tumulty about it and so President Wilson appointed McCall

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, July.—The fact that the conventions are all over for a time at least, has driven the rest of the political forces away for a week or a rest before launching into the campaign. In this connection it is said with a degree of certainty that President Wilson will not leave the city for any length of time and the rumors that he is going to this resort and that are mere rumors. President Wilson likes Washington and the White House and as a summer resort it has few equals. The exodus was large this week and on the Hill it is vacation for a certainty. Senator Harding and his large staff are now in Ohio and it will be more than ever now that all roads lead to Ohio, both Republican and Democratic. A number of "junks" are on and that one to the Orient that was lauded to the tune of 300 dwindled to a mere handful. It sailed from San Francisco this week. On these junks it must be borne in mind that they are nonpolitical and non-partisan for the junket is as old as the nation and as frequent as the meetings of the Congress. The best way to treat a junket is to pass it by and not notice it. For the most part it is harmless and not even expensive as expenses go these days.

During the past few days several thousand former government employees have been looking for new places. Some of them have returned to their old homes but more are still in the city seeming to think that Uncle Sam owes them a position or a job. Now there is a great difference between a job and a position here in Washington. All jobs are not positions for the war jobs were jobs after all for the most part. Just jobs for doing a bit of work in a short space of time for a good large salary as salaries go. The position of the departments is usually filled by some person wholly competent and one willing to work for a salary and give in return an honest day's labor. Oh, yes, there are thousands of persons here holding positions. The jobless one is out now and it is good for all concerned. But there are many of them here now looking for work. They are particular, too. Some want large wages of $12.00 to $18.00 a year and as for work, well, that is to be considered. The clerks who are now seeking work for the most part "war workers" refuse to accept a mere place in an office, a store or even a bureau for a mere wage. It is rather trying to the man who needs help to be unable to get what he wants just because he cannot afford to pay for loafing and incompetence and powder and paint. Places are waiting here for help, but they will wait a long time at the present rate of speed if the war workers expect even one hundred a month for not over six (better say five) real hours a day of poor work at the best. A visit to the heads of any bureau will demonstrate the fact of this gross incompetence and now you will see that in most all cases the efficient clerk has been retained. Of course some of the great "pullers" are still on the job and managed to keep on, but for the most part the wholesale removals were made with efficiency always in view.

It seems a shame that at this time so many get the idea of the Government as a mere paying machine with nothing for value received. It hurts labor that wants to be honest and labor that is honest. The unions here are always after members but that is all. Numbers seem to count most with them but some are now taking the stand that efficiency should be the watchword of every union. Former Governor McCall of Massachusetts was appointed again the other day by the President as tariff commissioner. He was appointed first some time ago but the Senate refused to confirm him. That made the appointment void so Mr. Wilson appointed Mr. McCall a second time as a recess appointee. When an appointment is such as above, the man hold the office until the expiration of the session of Congress following his recess appointment. If confirmed he is of course in office, but if not confirmed, he must retire at the close of the session in question. Well, Mr. McCall was so appointed, but the commission did not arrive at his home town of Winchester, Mass., due to the excellence of the mails no doubt. Mr. McCall heard all about it from the papers, but he wanted something else, so he asked Secretary Tumulty about it and so President Wilson appointed McCall

for a third time. Now rumors have it that he may not accept. He was on a commission or something of the sort for months a while ago, and no money for expenses has arrived as yet. That tells the story of many a recess appointment. No such office holder can draw any pay until he is confirmed. Many men do not care to take such a chance, especially the men who are not rich and living here in an appointive place is a costly experiment at times. It is rather surprising that men who have served on the recent commissions here have not been paid. Why it is so is not known but there is something wrong somewhere. Matters lie there and should not be allowed to happen. But Gov. McCall may not serve as a member of the tariff board simply because the Government has not "come across" with salary due. At all events that is the story here.

A bit too early to pick places under the next administration but the nominations tell the story of the beginning of the end for the administration now in power. It is not too early for some members of it to pack up. To not a few it will be a case of here's your hat, only hurry.

WILLIAM M. STUART

PILGRIM WORTHY OF HONOR

Elder Brewster Gave Up Much When He Abandoned His Home for a Great Principle.

Gone is the ancient pear tree, and no trace remains of the mulberry tree planted by Cardinal Wolsey, under the welcome shade of which Sir Edwyn Sandys sat in the long summer days of 1575 at Scrooby manor, but Pilgrims in England in 1920 need not neglect to raise their hats to the memory of Elder Brewster at his one-time home, because special arrangements have been made for escorting parties to the haunts of Pilgrim Fathers during the tercentenary year. All the Fathers made great sacrifices, but one will be tempted to think that William Brewster made perhaps more than most when one sees the ruins of his palatial home he left. Traces of the most still exist, and some of the great carved beams can be found in stables and cowsheds nearby. The size of the house can be realized when it is remembered that it was large enough to shelter Margaret Tudor and her entire retinue on her royal procession to Scotland.—Christian Science Monitor.

One Man Is Crew.

Recent naval tests have disclosed the remarkable characteristics of a new form of miniature torpedo boat, so low in the water that it has almost the invisibility of a submarine, according to a recent announcement in Popular Mechanics Magazine, accompanied by several interesting illustrations of the curious craft. It is operated by one man. It is but 40 feet long, and weighs 8,500 pounds with its single torpedo. The entire forward half of the boat is the torpedo chamber, and that part of the hull is U-shaped to conform to the big projectile, while the deck above is hinged along one side to permit the torpedo to be hoisted in. To discharge it, the whole rounded bow plate is lifted up like a gate, flooding the chamber and permitting the torpedo to go forth on the power of its own propeller.

Again, Leather From the Sea.

Considerable interest is at present being shown in the possibility of utilizing the skins of sharks and porpoises for the making of shoe leather. The bureau of standards has completed arrangements to test the comparative durability of upper leather made from shark and porpoise skins as compared with that from calfskin and cowhide. The co-operation of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association has been secured in the making of the necessary shoes for the test. It is believed that the results of this investigation will be watched with considerable interest.—Scientific American.

At All Speeds For All Needs

The performance of your motor depends largely on correct lubrication.

Polarine

keeps compression tight. It develops maximum power from the fuel, whether you are running throttled down to a leisurely pace, or tearing along at top speed. It cushions all bearings and engaging parts against wear.

Use Polarine on your motor, and your fuel, oil and repair costs will stay down.

For transmissions and differentials use Polarine Gear Oil.

PROBATE COURT

To all persons interested in the estate of Rebecca Malcolm late of Andover in said County (wife of Hugh Malcolm) deceased, intestate.

WHEREAS, Hugh Malcolm of Andover in the County of Essex, has presented to said Court a petition, representing that he as the husband of said
deceased, is interested in the estate of said deceased
in this Commonwealth; that the whole of the estate
of said deceased remaining after the payment of her debts and funeral and administration charges, does
not exceed in value the sum of five thousand dollars;
and praying that the value of the whole of the estate which is described in said petition may be determined by said Court, according to law.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate
Court, to be held at Salem in said County of Essex,
on the nineteenth day of July A.D., 1920, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any
you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation
by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested who can be found within the County of Essex,
within fourteen days, at least, before said Court; and if any one cannot be so found, by publishing the same in the Andover Townsman a newspaper published in Andover once in each week, for three successive weeks, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, Jr., Register

To the Honorable, the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:

RESPECTFULLY I submit and represents Charles H. Shaw of Andover in said county, that he was lawfully married to Ruth G. Shaw now of parts to your libellant unknown at Brockton, Massachusetts on the fifth day of May A. D. 1913, and there-afterwards your libellant and the said
Ruth G. Shaw lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Brockton
and Andover; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations,
but the said Ruth G. Shaw being wholly regardless of the same, at said Andover, on or about the twenty-fifth day of March, 1917, utterly deserted your libellant and has continued such
desertion from that day until the present time,
being more than three consecutive years next
prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from
the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Ruth G. Shaw.

Dated this twenty-sixth day of May, A.D. 1920.

CHARLES H. SHAW

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

ESSEX, SS. SUPERIOR COURT, June 3, 1920.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said
libellant give notice to said Ruth G. Shaw by causing an attested copy of his said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Andover Townsman, a newspaper printed in Andover in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days
at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of August next, and by mailing, forthwith,
by registered letter to the libellant at her last
known place of residence an attested copy of said
libel and of this order thereon; that she may appear at said Salem within six months from said first Monday of August and show cause, if any she has,
why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

In Department of Public Utilities
Boston, June 30, 1920.

On the petition of the Lawrence Gas Company to rescind the order of the Commission dated February 20, 1920,
in so far as concerns the unissued balance of the stock authorized thereby,
and for the approval of an issue of mortgage bonds of the face value of one million five hundred thousand dollars
($1,500,000) for the purpose of paying the present funded indebtedness of the company and to pay for additions to and
improvements of its plant and property,
the Commission of the Department of Public Utilities will give a public hearing to all parties interested at its hearing
room, 166 State House, Boston, on Wednesday, the fourteenth day of July,
next, at twelve o'clock noon.

And the petitioner is required to give notice of said hearing by serving a copy hereof upon the mayors of Lawrence and Methuen and upon the chairmen of the selectmen of Andover, North Andover and Boxford, respectively, ten days at least prior to the time of said hearing, and by publication hereof in the "Lawrence Eagle", the "Lawrence Sun-American", the "Lawrence Telegram", the "Lawrence Tribune", the "Methuen Transcript" and the "Andover Townsman", in each of said papers
once each week for two successive weeks
prior to the time of said hearing, and to make return of service and publication
at the time of hearing.

By order of the Commission,
Andrew A. Highlands,
Secretary.

The music was in charge of Miss Annie G. Donovan organist and the choir was assisted by John L. Donovan of Lawrence who gave a very fine rendition of the "Jesu Christ" at the offertory and at the close of the mass, Walter Bowan,
also of Lawrence, sang splendidly the
"Hymn of the Sacred Heart" by Bose-
wick.

Rev. Fr. Nugent preached the sermon and his text was "Thou Art a Priest Forever of the Order of Melchizedek." He delivered a very impressive discourse on
the priesthood and the sacrifice of the mass and at the close personally addressed Fr. Remmes and expressed the hope he might live to celebrate his golden jubilee. At the close of the mass the friends of Fr. Remmes flocked to the altar rail and received his personal blessing.

In the afternoon a reception was tendered him at the home of his parents on Woodland road.

Rev. Frank B. Remmes was born in Andover, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C.
Remmes and educated in the grammar and Pynchard schools. He attended Phillips Academy for three years and was a member of the class of 1912, but in the fall of 1911 he enrolled in Notre Dame and began his study for the priesthood which finally culminated in his ordination at South Bend, Ind., a week ago. After four years at Notre Dame he received his degree.

With talent for music, Fr. Remmes
found ample scope to develop that talent
as a violinist he was a member of the University choir of 1914-15.

In 1916 he continued his theological studies at the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., and last year had a splendid chance to devote time to the study of music in preparation for his future work at Notre Dame. Fr. Remmes returns to his alma mater soon and will have charge of the college of music.

LAWRENCE

Saturday, July 3—Electrical workers employed at the Lawrence Gas company plant have accepted a compromise offer of a 15 per cent wage increase which was offered them. Last night representatives of the union met with company officials and discussed the demands, following which a meeting of Local 326, Electrical Workers, was held
and it was voted to accept the offer.
The gas company firemen, who have asked for a big increase and who have refused to accept a 15 per cent raise,
have not yet heard from the international union of which permission has been asked to call a strike. Monday's municipal celebration will include
the ringing of bells, morning, noon and
night; free entertainments for children
in the theaters in the morning, and a band concert entertainment and fireworks on the Lawrence street playstead
in the evening. At 10.00 o'clock in the forenoon the Lawrence Cycle Dealers' Association will hold bicycle races
around the common, including a five-mile race for men, a one-mile race for boys and a one-mile race for girls.

Monday at 1.00 o'clock the Moose parade will be held with about 5000 in line,
and at its conclusion there will be the field sports at O'Sullivan park. The holiday golf at the Merrimack Valley Country Club will include a flag tournament and match play versus bogey. In the evening there will be a dance.

For the first time in its history the local
Y. W. C. A. will have a summer camp
for girls this year, opening July 17th at Alexander's camp on Corbett's pond and continuing until September 11th.

A spectacular blaze in the wooden building at 3 Gorton street, owned by Max Brown and occupied by the Willardale Creamery, F. H. Willard, proprietor, gutted the structure this forenoon and spread on either side to plant of the Bay State Textile Finishing Company and the wood-working shop of Carl Olsen and Sons. There was considerable damage in each of the latter

total damage is estimated at between $20,000 and $25,000 which is mostly covered by insurance. On Saturday, July 10th, those who have been attending the class in home gardening at the Chamber of Commerce will visit the Essex County Agricultural school at Hathorne and will be shown about the place. Instructors in the various departments will be present to extend a welcome and to explain the work of the different branches of the school. The trip to Hathorne will be the sixth and
the local chamber rooms will be next Thursday night. Last Thursday Instructor Clark discussed transplanting,
explaining the best methods to employ
so as not to interfere with root growth.
He told about watering, cutting back of foliage, the proper depth to plant and the best time for different things. He also gave a talk on good and bad insects.

Tuesday, July 6—The boom,
which is used as a safeguard against accidents at the falls in the river, was set in the river yesterday afternoon between noon and 2 o'clock. The local fuel conditions with reference to the industries was discussed today with Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow by a committee from the chamber of commerce. Fred E. Batcheller, chairman of the chamber's transportation committee, is chairman of the committee,
and the other members are Secretary
George E. Rix of the chamber and Bernard L. McDonald. Seventy-two young men from Lawrence and vicinity
left Monday morning for Camp Lawrence, the Y. M. C. A. camp at Altan Bay, Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H. The party was under the care of Clyde Hess,
boys' work secretary of the local Y. M.
C. A. J. Blaine Withee, who is to have charge of the camp again this year, had preceded the party to Winnepesaukee.

Fireworks on the playstead last night attracted several thousand city
celebrators and many who had returned after spending the Fourth of July at vacation resorts. The pyrotechnics
which were displayed at 9.30 o'clock
lasted about 45 minutes and comprised a varied array of sky-illuminators and noise-producing bombs. The fireworks were preceded by a band concert, and entertainment program. The New England convention of Moose, the three-
day affair which opened in this city
Saturday, came to a close yesterday
afternoon with a monster street parade
and field day at O'Sullivan park. Lawrence's streets resounded in the early hours of the afternoon with the tramp
of marching brothers, the footfalls of about 1000 of the Loyal Order of Moose proclaiming their fealty to their order.
Haverhill was adjudged to have the largest number of people in line, with 185, not including the band and degree team. A large silver cup was given as their prize. Pawtucket, R. I., delegation made the best appearance with their natty white shirts, blue trousers
and straw hats. Upon the completion by the county engineer of a proposed plan for the straightening of North Parish road (which is a continuation of Green street) from Osgood street to the Shawshens river, there will be a hearing in the City Hall, Lawrence.

Among those who appeared in favor of the proposed relocation at the preliminary hearing were: Edward W. Green, Ivar L. Sjostrom, James B. Ewart, and Daniel C. Smith. During the summer a flower mission will be conducted at 33 Jackson street, in connection with the Lawrence City Mission. The office will be open to receive the flowers at 8.30
o'clock and Mrs. Louis S. Cox, Mrs. J.
Herbert Hunter and Miss Agnes Stuart
and other volunteers will take charge.
Flowers will be distributed for the first time on Thursday morning, July 8th,
at 33 Jackson street and a generous supply is hoped for. The municipal supervised playgrounds opened for the 1920 summer season Tuesday morning
with hundreds of happy youngsters flocking to the grounds and enjoying all their benefits.

NORTH ANDOVER

Tuesday, July 6—Christ Church,
Andover, and St. Paul's, North Andover
held a joint picnic Saturday at Yung-bauer's Grove, off Clark street, this town. The day was necessarily shortened by the rain. A few track events,
however, were run off before the rain
drove everybody to cover. The union
picnic of the First Methodist and Trinitarian Congregational Sunday schools
took place Saturday at Juniper park, Methuen. About 150 left here shortly after 9 o'clock. The children's sports were held in the pavilion. Much interest was centered in the senior events, but because of the rain a postponement was necessary. The following was the program at the first interchurch service
at the Congregational church on Sunday night: Song service by Interchurch chorus under direction of Mrs. Lucia G. Lord, with Prof. Richard Redman at the organ. Invocation and responsive service by Rev. E. J. Prescott. Scripture lesson by Rev. William Patrick;
solo, Mrs. Lord; prayer, Rev. L. W.
Adams; greetings from the British people by Mrs. Thomas Lloyd of Colwyn Bay, North Wales; greetings from the Congregational churches of New York State, by Rev. George A. Brock, superintendent of Congregational Missions of N. Y. sermon, "The Work of the Holy Spirit", Rev. Thomas Lloyd
of Colwyn Bay, North Wales. Ushers:
members of the Interchurch Council.
About 250 attended.

METHUEN

Saturday, July 3—At 10.30 Sunday the presence of Rev. D. L. Ritchie, D.D., a leading religious genius of the British Empire and chairman and
speaker at several chief meetings at the International Council at Boston of four thousand Congregational world leaders,
insures a notable celebration of freedom loving races of one blood. Added to the note of the Declaration of Independence
will be the Interdependence of the Anglo-Saxon race. The pupils of the Central Grammar School have raised money during the past year and purchased a flag pole, to be erected in the school yard. It was planned to have the pole in position and dedicated with appropriate exercises July 4th, but owing to the late arrival of the pole it will be impossible to have it erected in time. Consequently, the dedication
has been postponed until a later date,
due notice of which will be given.

The carrier service from the local post office which was discontinued April 1st, to the residents beyond 56 Pleasant
street and Summer street, has been resumed commencing July 1st. The residents of that section strenuously objected to the discontinuation of the service and the matter was taken up with the department at Washington,
with the result that the service has been resumed and additional help promised
for the local office. Since the discontinuance of the service the residents have received their mail through the general
delivery, refusing, with two exceptions,
to erect boxes for rural delivery.

Tuesday, July 6—July Fourth
proved a busy day for Methuen firemen,
no less than 13 alarms were sounded at the Central Fire Station. About 4.30
a.m. a fire was discovered at the Lee Chemical Works, owned by Ashton Lee & Co., on Chelmsford and Lawrence streets, which gutted the building and gave the firemen a stiff fight for an hour. At 12.30 in the morning a shed owned by James H. Lyons & Son, situated on Pearl court, and the adjoining
building, used by the moth department,
were found in flames and for a
time the situation looked serious.
Other alarms were false or of a minor nature. In the evening thousands wended their way to the playstead on Pelham street, where a fine display of fireworks was given.

Substitute for Wool Perfected in England

A substitute for wool which is said to have excellent wearing qualities, especially if used in conjunction with other materials, has been perfected at the Textile Institute, Leeds, England. The new material is made by a chemical process
from cellulose which is derived from cotton waste. Apparently, there is no difficulty in working textile machinery either with the material alone or mixed
with an equal amount of wool.

The stuff has a harder feel than wool,
but the director of the experiments from which it resulted predicts that it will wear as well. The principal difficulty in producing the new substance was in getting the proper combination of machinery. There is some question as to whether it can be used as a substitute
for fine wools, but it is satisfactory
when used in place of coarse and medium kinds. —Dry Goods Economist.

The Farry Stamps

"What has been called the greatest collection of postage stamps in the world — and probably the description is true — is soon to be sold to the highest bidders in piecemeal quantities at auction in Paris," writes Kent B. Stiles, the stamp editor of Boy's Life in the June issue of that magazine. "In this collection there are reputed to be 120-000 stamps, including some of the rarest adhesives in existence. It is said to be worth $3,000,000, and the French Government authorities are understood to have rejected an offer of $1,875,000
from an American collector."

"How did the French Government
come into possession of this wonderful collection? That is a wartime story.
Count Philip la Renotiere von Ferrary,
a wealthy European philatelist, owned
the stamps, and when he died in Switzerland about two years ago he bequeathed them to the Berlin Postal Museum. Had France and Germany
been at peace, undoubtedly the stamps
would have reached Berlin. But it so happened that the collection at the time
was on French soil and that France and Germany were at war. Thus France refused to allow this German-owned property to pass beyond French borders."

"The Ferrary rarities include some of the early stamps of the United States,
Hawaii, Austria, Cape of Good Hope,
British Honduras, Bermuda, Great Britain, Brazil, British Guiana, New South Wales, Western Australia, New Brunswick and other countries."

Substitute Rice for Costly Potatoes

That the use of rice for potatoes, a substitution already made by many thrifty housewives, could be even more widely adopted with profit, is a suggestion of the United States Department of Agriculture, prompted by the present high prices of potatoes. The department's food specialists point out that potatoes are approximately four-fifths water and one-fifth food material, where-
as in rice, as well as in most other grains,
the proportions are practically reversed.
Under normal conditions the price of these two commodities usually are such as to somewhere nearly equalize the two
from the standpoint of food cost.

Recently, however, potatoes have sold
from $1 to $1.50 per peck, which means about 7 to 10 cents a pound, whereas rice has retailed at 15 to 17 cents a pound. So long as the price of the two foods is substantially in this relationship, it is obvious from a comparison of their food content that a given sum of money can be spent much more economically for rice than for potatoes.

The estimated production of rice in this country for the past year was 41,000
000 bushels, an increase of nearly 3,000-000 over 1918. While some export business in rice has begun to develop,
the supplies for domestic consumption
are considered sufficient to meet a growing demand.

The department is not so much concerned with the development of a sudden increase in demand as it is in having an increasing number of people
learn the value of this product not only as a dessert but as an item ranking with other cereals and with vegetables in the menu.

A Strong Statement

There was a lot of good sense in that communication of Charles S. Bird, when he told the people of Massachusetts that this was no time to get into a primary fight. It is very fortunate, that loyal as Mr. Bird is to the Republican party, he feels even more keenly the necessity of finishing the kind of government that the Democratic party has given to the American people the last seven years. His statement is well worth a wide reading:

Charles Sumner Bird declines to be a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, in the interest of party harmony and solidarity, to the end that the "Democratic scourge" may be averted. Mr. Bird makes known his decision in the following letter to Robert M. Washburn, Grafton D. Cushing and Joseph Walker in reply to their request that he run:

"I have given your suggestions that I enter the contest for the Republican nomination for governor, careful and deliberate consideration and have decided that I shall not be a candidate. I thank you, however, for your cordial endorsement, and I also take this opportunity to express my gratitude to those who have written over the State asking me to enter the primary for governor.

"In your letter you place particular stress upon the statement that the Republican party should nominate for governor at this time a business man. I agree that the government of Massachusetts, employing over 30,000 men and women and expending more than $50,000,000 per year, should be conducted along the lines of a large, well-organized and humane business, but I deny that any measurable executive or managerial authority is vested in the governor who, as I see it, has practically no opportunity to apply business methods to the affairs of State. When the day comes, as it will, that the governor is held strictly responsible for all expenditures of the people's money, as well as for adequate service in every department of the people's business, then and not until then, will the government of Massachusetts be changed in an economical, serviceable and humanitarian manner. There is no doubt that the existing confused and intricate State organization would, if applied to any industrial business, bring chaos and bankruptcy within a short period of time. It makes, therefore, no particular difference in so far as economical and serviceable government is concerned, whether our next governor be a business man, a lawyer or a politician. "But more important than anything else, I am convinced that at this time, when the Democratic scourge overshadows the country, threatening the peace and welfare of the common man, a primary fight might precipitate a split in the Republican party at a time when, in order to insure Republican success, we must get together and keep together from now until election day. Personal ambition and old-time feuds should yield to party solidarity and party harmony. We have no easy task ahead of us, and we must not waste our efforts in discord and disunion. I, for one, shall refuse to rock the boat."

Editorial Cinders

Andover is fortunate in the willingness of Dr. Charles E. Abbott to stand for the Republican nomination for Representative. Dr. Abbott was born in Andover, and has spent a lifetime in the kind of service for Andover people that has endeared him in a marked degree to the entire township. The good fortune of the town not only comes from the character of service that Dr. Abbott will be able to give, but is further enhanced because one who has had such an active life as he, is willing to give up time to public service. We can think of no one better qualified by training and through intimate acquaintance with all kinds of people to better serve Andover than Dr. Abbott, and his announcement should make sure his election almost without contest. It is a fine sign of the times when men in the position of Dr. Abbott are willing to give of busy lives to public service not directly related to their regular activities.

Burglaries around town the past week are simply suggestive of what we may fear in the conditions that are sure to follow any lessened business activity. The lawless attitude of many people at the present time does not need a vent, because of the more or less easy ways of getting money directly related to industry. When those easy ways pass and fewer men are employed, we may look for conditions where no man's property is any safer than he makes it, and conditions that will require a deal of oversight by those who are charged with the responsibility of protecting life and property. We may as well right now prepare for a situation that is sure to develop.

Changes in Andover and Boston Trains

Some of the more important changes in the Boston and Maine schedule which went into effect on June 28th and interest those who travel between Andover and Boston are as follows:

The train which left Andover at 9:53 a.m., arriving in Boston at 10:30 a.m., now leaves at 9:55 a.m., arriving at 10:10 a.m.; train leaving at 1:43 a.m., arriving at 5:16 p.m., now leaves at 1:30 p.m., arriving at 5:53 p.m.; train leaving at 9:36 p.m., arriving at 10:27 p.m., now leaves at 9:56 p.m., arriving at 10:47 p.m.

There are fewer changes in the trains running from Boston to Andover. The train which formerly left Boston at 5:53 a.m., arriving in Andover at 6:15 a.m., now leaves Boston at 5:50 a.m., arriving in Andover at 6:13 a.m., both on week-days and Sundays. The Sunday train which leaves Boston at 5:10 p.m., now arrives in Andover at 5:57 p.m., instead of 6:12 p.m.

Factories Obligated to Change Working Hours

On account of the change in the running time of the trains of the Boston and Maine, the Smith and Dove Company and the Tver Rubber Company have been obliged to rearrange their working hours to accommodate the employees who live in Ballard Vale and beyond.

The train which formerly left here at 1:43 p.m., daylight time has been set back to 1:30 and as work did not cease until 1:36, employees for the past week have been compelled to wait until a quarter of six.

Under the new schedule the work day will be 6:55 a.m. till noon; 12:55 p.m. to 1:25 p.m., which will allow the workers time to catch the 1:30 train.

South Church Sunday

The service will be held in the vestry on account of the repairs being made upon the church. The preacher for the morning is to be Rev. George A. Wilder, D.D., of Chikore-Rhodesia, Africa. Friends of Mrs. George Gatterson will be pleased to meet and to hear her brother, Dr. Wilder from his African mission in Rhodesia. An offering for the American Board will be taken.

Discharged from Service

John W. Grout, who has been in the U. S. service for over two years has been discharged and has returned to his home here. He was with the Third Ordnance and has been stationed in Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Grout, Main street. Another son, Walter B. Grout served overseas with Battery F, 102d F. A., Y.D.

Results of Salvation Army Drive

Andover has closed its campaign for the Salvation Army drive and Samuel P. Hulme, who volunteered to act as treasurer, has sent a check for $766.81 to Adjutant Meeks of Lawrence.

Of the total amount Smith and Dove leads with $182.35, which includes a large donation from the old bowling league officials. Tver Rubber is second (first in actual subscriptions) with $11.15. The Boy Scouts, L. L. Monan, Frank Hale, Jr., Philip Dodge and Walter Partridge collected $70.65.

Private subscriptions totalled $120.67 and several organizations made their contributions through Lawrence headquarters and by the collections of the Insurance Company of Lawrence.

The following is the work of the collectors:

Bill in Equity Filed Against Andover Firm

A bill in equity has been filed in the office of the clerk of courts by John W. Shepard and Cecil Shepard of Rochester, N. H., against Frederick White and John E. White whose place of business is in the Morrison building on Park street.

The bill states that plaintiffs are inventors of a machine for making picker sticks used in the textile industry and defendants are manufacturers of picker sticks and May 23, 1919, plaintiffs agreed to give defendants a license to use their machine and installed one for them receiving $500 on account and later $100 more. January 13, 1920, defendants ceased to use the machine and on February 18th wrote plaintiffs that they would not further use the machine. Plaintiffs believe that they have prepared blue prints and are preparing to apply for a patent on a similar machine. Plaintiffs ask the court to order the delivery of the machine and all drawings and an injunction against proceeding in getting a patent.

The defendants have entered a counter suit claiming that the machine does not do the work as guaranteed when they first entered into negotiations for its purchase, and that it has been of no use to them. They also bring suit to be reimbursed for a considerable sum of money which they have spent in unsuccessful attempts to perfect the machine.

Frederick White has recently returned from North Carolina where he went to purchase hickory which is used for the manufacture of the picker sticks. Andover is the only place in this vicinity where they are made and Mr. White has orders from many large mills.

Spent Birthday Here

John G. Hutchinson, one of the seventy-nine survivors of the old Fourth New Hampshire Regiment and a lifelong resident of Manchester, N. H., Wednesday observed his seventy-seventh birthday. Mr. Hutchinson has been prominent in the affairs of that city for over two generations. He was formerly a deputy sheriff and is now actively engaged as a pension attorney. He spent the day at the bedside of his daughter, Mrs. Etta S. Young, who is seriously ill. She is the wife of David C. Young of the firm of Lindsay and Young and one of the six daughters of the aged veteran.

Children to Camp at Boxford

A summer camp in Boxford is to be maintained by William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company for the children between the ages of seven and fourteen whose parents are employed in the mills of the company. Work is already underway getting the names of all the children who are to attend.

Under the present plans the camp will start next Monday and for two weeks, only girls will be taken. The following two weeks will be for the boys, while the next two weeks will be for those employees who cannot afford to take a vacation and are in ill health.

Each child or person who is to attend will be required to bring a cup and an extra blanket, all other wants being arranged for by the American Woolen Company.

To Hold Picnic at Rabbitts

The members of the Andover Natural History Society will hold a field meeting at Rabbitts pond on Tuesday afternoon, July 13th at 3.00 o'clock.

After the games and sports, a picnic supper will be enjoyed. In case of rain, the outing will be held the following day.

Engagement Announced

The engagement is announced of Miss Paula Lang Clough, daughter of Mrs. Hettie L. Clough of Mapleway, Wakefield, to Perley M. Bartlett of Chestnut Hill.

Miss Clough was formerly supervisor of drawing in the Andover public schools, having resigned her position here in 1918 after two years of service to become a draughtsman in the Department of the Northeast, Boston. She is a graduate of the Boston Normal Art School.

Joint Picnic Saturday at Yungbauer's Grove. Christ Church of Andover Unites with St. Paul's Parish

Christ Church, Andover, and St. Paul's, North Andover, held a joint picnic Saturday at Yungbauer's grove, off Clark street, North Andover. The day was necessarily shortened by the rain. A few track events, however, were run off before the rain drove everybody to cover, with the following results:

100-yard dash—Won by Stewart Henry, Christ church; second, Waldo Fraser, St. Paul's; and third, Norman Humphrey, St. Paul's.

100-yard dash for girls—Won by Phyllis Yates, Christ church; second, Ruth Bower, St. Paul's; third, Viola Holland, Christ church.

50-yard dash for boys under twelve—Won by Norman Greenwood, St. Paul's; second, Luther Leighton, St. Paul's; third, Raymond Hansen, St. Paul's.

50-yard dash for girls under twelve—Won by Gertrude Twombly.

Potato race for boys over twelve—Won by William Holden of Christ church; second, Waldo Fraser of St. Paul's; and third, Stewart Henry of Christ church.

Potato race for girls over twelve—Won by Doris Holt of Christ church; second, Phyllis Yates, Christ church; and third, Muriel Bower of St. Paul's.

Potato race for boys under twelve—Won by James Baker, Christ church; Tom Walker, Christ church and Norman Greenwood, St. Paul's in that order.

Potato race for girls under twelve—Won by Gertrude Twombly, St. Paul's; second, Ruth Bower, St. Paul's and third Mildred Howard, St. Paul's. Gertrude Twombly of St. Paul's won two firsts in the girl's potato race under twelve and 50-yard race.

After the rain came down too heavy for comfort, the party adjourned to Rogers barn where lunch was eaten and the prizes announced. Ribbons were awarded to the winners of places in all heats and finals, and to the winners of the finals prizes were given. Ice cream and tonics were served. The St. Paul's troop of Boy Scouts, which had been camped at the grove the evening before was of great assistance in arranging for the conduct of the picnic. A truck and automobile carried the Andover contingent and the following men assisted in the transportation of St. Paul's school: Messrs. Thomas H. Friend, George Richardson, Ernest Howard, Walter I. Hawkes and James Goff.

Messrs. Hawkes, superintendent of St. Paul's Church School and Knipe of Christ Church acted as starters; Mr. Yates superintendent of Christ Church School, George Goff and Rob MacMurray of St. Paul's acted as judges at the finish. Rev. William E. Patrick served as clerk of course and Rev. Charles W. Henry as referee. In spite of the rain, those that went enjoyed themselves thoroughly on the attractive country grounds.

Congressman Rogers to Visit Andover

The following letter has been received from the Hon. John Jacob Rogers:

"In accordance with my yearly custom I am to utilize a portion of the recess of Congress in personally visiting all the cities and towns of the Fifth Congressional District, so that any of my constituents having official business to transact may readily call upon me for that purpose. It shall be especially glad to take up unsettled matters in behalf of soldiers and sailors, their families or to give them such advice upon their problems as they may desire. I plan to spend some time in your neighborhood and I shall hope on that occasion to greet you and your friends who may have official business of any kind to transact and who may find it convenient to call upon me."

Andover 9-Amesbury 3

Andover K. of C. baseball team went to Amesbury Monday morning and defeated the Knights team of that place 9-3 in a Merrimack Valley district league game.

Andover took a four-run lead in the first inning and never was in danger of defeat. Burke was generous with his passes and Andover sandwiched in hits that figured largely in the run getting. Collins was hit for nine safeties but he was steady in the pinches and Amesbury had twelve men left on the bases.

Welch, Cussen and Dugan led with the stick for Andover and Higgins, Mahoney and Sheehan for Amesbury. Higgins also starred in the field.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE MANDER

George Mander, until recently an Andover resident, suddenly passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Annie Hannagan of Boston.

Mr. Mander who had been living in Boston but two weeks had spent practically all his life in Andover, coming here when a young man from Radway, England, where he was born eighty-six years ago. For many years he was employed on the Dove estate, leaving to take charge of the filter beds and lived in the old homestead on Haverhill street, Frye Village. He was remarkably active for his years and only lately has his health failed.

He spent two years in California and since his return has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Wilson Knipe on Walnut avenue.

Mr. Mander is survived by six daughters, Mrs. Annie Hannagan, Boston; Mrs. Elizabeth Scott of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Piety Knipe, Mrs. Caroline Pomeroy, Mrs. Mary Manning and Mrs. Marion Wilkinson, all of this town, and one son, John Mander, besides many grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wilson Knipe, 7 Walnut avenue, Andover, Wednesday afternoon.

Four grandsons of Mr. Mander, Wilson and George Knipe of Andover, and John and Joseph Flanagan of Boston were the bearers. Rev. F. A. Wilson, pastor emeritus of the Free church, and Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of that church, officiated at the services.

Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

MRS. DANIEL A. COLLINS

Mrs. Helen Collins, wife of Daniel A. Collins, died Sunday morning at the family home, 150 No. Main street, aged forty-seven years. She was born in Andover and had always made her home here. She leaves besides her husband, three children, Helen, Martha and Daniel J.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at St. Augustine's church at 9.00 o'clock. Requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. P. J. Campbell. Maurice J. Mahoney sang "Jesu Salvator Mundi" at the offertory.

The bearers were William Crowley, Daniel Driscoll, William Welch, Lawrence Hannon, James Green and Joseph Wholey.

Burial was in St. Augustine's cemetery, where committal services were conducted by Rev. P. J. Campbell, assisted by Rev. William J. McCormick.

HAROLD LEO LEARY

Harold Leo Leary, the fourteen-year-old son of John and Mary (Donovan) Leary, died Tuesday afternoon at the family home, 12 Highland road. He was born in Lawrence but had lived in Andover for the past twelve years, having been graduated from the Stowe Grammar School in June. He leaves besides his parents five sisters, Catherine, Mary, Elizabeth, Anna and Margaret; and two brothers, Arthur and John.

The funeral was held Thursday morning at St. Augustine's church. High mass of requiem was celebrated at nine o'clock by Rev. P. J. Campbell. At the offertory, J. William Mahoney sang, "De Profundis."

The bearers were Roy and Charles Bowman, Leo Allison and George Garland. Burial was in St. Augustine's cemetery where committal services were conducted by Rev. P. J. Campbell.

Crap Shooters Caught Napping

Crap shooters in Andover Sunday afternoon were relieved of $60.00 by a colored highwayman while a game was in progress in the Indian Ridge Reservation woods.

About thirty young men of the town were enjoying their usual Sunday afternoon recreation and $10.00 was the pot, when it is claimed one of their number, also a colored man, left the game for a few minutes and two minutes after his return the hold up took place. A big, burly negro pulled a six-shooter and covering the crowd of awe-stricken players ordered them to empty their pockets and throw their cash into the pot, making off with about $60.00 all told, and also as a reminder that he was not to be trifled with fired a couple of shots into the air.

The gang are suspicious of their negro companion and firmly believe he was in collusion with the highwayman. The fact that he lost $6.00 to the pot did not serve to allay their suspicions. There is nothing however they can do, because a complaint to the police means their arrest for gaming on the Lord's day.

Textile Workers Return to Italy

Records of the revenue office show that Italy is reclaiming many of her sons and daughters as this country leads all others in the number of declarations given as the destination of each voyager. It is also noted that almost all going to Italy, most of whom come from large textile centers, signify their intentions of remaining there. Other countries to which a great number are going are Ireland, Sweden, England, Poland and France, but almost all of these people are people who intend to return to the United States after visiting relatives.

Fund for the Improvement of Punched Hall

The executive committee of the Punched Alumni Association has undertaken to raise the sum of $1500 with which to purchase a new piano, curtain and clock for the school hall. Since the new floor was laid and the walls retinted at the time the new building was constructed, the lack of suitable accessories of this sort has been keenly felt.

Several social evenings have been held, the proceeds from which have been used as a nucleus for this fund. The circular letter as printed below has been sent out to members of the association and it is hoped that the entire sum may be raised within the next few months.

The officers of the association are: Fred E. Cheever, president; first vice-president, Myron E. Guttererson; second vice-president, Eldred Larkin; third vice-president George Brown; secretary, Mrs. Helen Cannon; treasurer, Miss Ethel Hitchcock; executive committee, Miss Ella Holt, Miss Beatrice Poland and Roy Hardy.

To the Friends of Punched:

Punched Hall, associated with the school days of so many Andover boys and girls of the last sixty years, is sadly in need of three things; a new piano, a curtain for the stage, and a clock.

The piano now being used was bought in 1893 from Miss Stevens of North Andover. It was paid for with the proceeds of entertainments given by the classes of '93 and '94, under the leadership of Principal Baldwin, Miss Mary Dorn and others. After nearly thirty years' service, it is now battered and scarred, and has reached the stage where its metallic and uncertain tone can hardly be called a satisfactory note in any of the school or social gatherings held in the hall.

Every member of the school since the days of Mr. Goldsmith recalls the curtain which adorned the stage, and at school dramatics, has probably scanned that view of Ellen and her Isle, speculating not so much, perhaps, on the literary merits of "The Lady of the Lake," as on what would be revealed when that beautiful scene would roll upward out of sight. The curtain was procured through the efforts of Mr. Goldsmith, about 1872, when the school was rebuilt after the fire in 1871, and at that time was the last word in stage curtains. In this case also, entertainments were held to meet the expense; for instance a play written by Mr. Goldsmith was presented by the scholars, with perhaps an astronomical demonstration added to the program to balance the levity of the play. During the recent changes in Punched Hall, the stage was remodelled so that there is now no curtain, and the inconvenience of this has been very marked during the past year.

It has been suggested that it would be a proper and fitting task for the Punched Alumni Association to endeavor to provide a new piano and a new curtain, and accordingly, this letter is being sent to the alumni and friends of the school, asking their assistance. The total amount needed is $1500. Of this, about $150 is already in hand, leaving a balance of $1350 to be raised by September 1st, if possible.

Will you not help in this work and send a contribution to the Treasurer at your early convenience? Any amount, large or small, will be gratefully received. This is an opportunity to show in a concrete way our interest in Punched, and may we hope that all will take advantage of it.

Thanking you for your cooperation, we are

Sincerely yours,

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, Ethel A. Hitchcock, treasurer.

ABBOTT VILLAGE

Miss Margaret Armour of Red Spring road visited friends in Allston last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Anderson of Brechin Terrace spent Sunday at Old Orchard.

Mrs. Jean McIntosh of Red Spring road visited friends in Boston last Thursday.

Norman Harris of Hartford, Conn., is enjoying a vacation at his former home on Red Spring road.

James Dick of Hartford, Connecticut spent the week-end at the home of his parents on Cuba street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coyle and family of Red Spring road enjoyed the sea breezes at Revere last Sunday.

George Brown a recent arrival from Arbroath, Scotland, has entered the employ of Smith and Dove Company.

The Smith and Dove baseball team won its game with Ballard Vale played on the holiday. The game was closely contested and was decided by a timely hit by Mike Lynch, a two-bagger with the bases full, which brought in three runs making the score 4 to 1.

Presentation

A number of coworkers of Miss Margaret Hastings, who recently left the employ of the inspecting department of Smith and Dove Company, gave her a pleasant surprise at her home on Cuba street, and in behalf of those present, Mrs. Bella Fyffe presented her with a beautiful gold bracelet-watch. Miss Hastings thanked the donors for their gift and an enjoyable evening was spent. Games were played and vocal and victrola selections were rendered, followed by bountiful refreshments.

Those present were: Mrs. Anna McIntosh, Mrs. Jean MacIntosh, Mrs. John Irvine, Mrs. William Stirling, Mrs. Timony, Mrs. Jack, Misses Margaret Bonner, Nellie Joyce, Mary Hickley, Alice Hemmer, Mary Dudley, Catherine and Jessie Hastings.

Smith and Dove Athletic Carnival

An enthusiastic meeting of the employees of the Smith and Dove Company was held a week ago Thursday evening in the athletic club rooms and plans were made for a big field day and athletic carnival to be held on the cricket field on Saturday, August 21st. Excellent progress was made and committees were named from every department in the corporation to act in conjunction with the general committee of the Athletic Association.

The committees appointed were: Wet Twisting—James Low, Ralph Morrison, Misses Jessie Haddon, Peggy Copley.

Wet Spinning—Charles Valentine, Peter Campbell, Misses Annie Coyle, Ella Fee.

Damp Spinning—William Greenhouse, George Murphy, Misses Aurora Boucher, Lizzie Connolly.

Hackle Machine—William Broderick, Kirk Auchterlone.

Machine Shop—Frank Jamieson, Joseph Cole.

Sorters—Thomas Carter, William McKenzie.

Winding—Frank McBride, Stewart Fraser.

Dry Twisting—David Gillespie, Oscar Anderson, Miss Jennie Nicoll.

Tow Spinning—Charles Dyer, Clarence McIntyre, Misses Grace French, Helen Stewart.

Tow Preparing—William Boyd, William Lindsay, Catherine Murphy, Mrs. Manning.

Broe Blomquist of Shawheen Village and Fred McCollum will be soloists at the West Church on Sunday at the morning service.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Lewis of West Haven, Connecticut and Mrs. John Q. Robertson of Waltham are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lewis of Lowell street.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose of Walpole are receiving congratulations on the birth of an eleven-pound boy. Mr. Rose is county agent of Norfolk county and Mrs. Rose was Miss Josephine Burt.

The children, grandchildren and neighbors gathered at the Bourdela's home on Wednesday to give a surprise party to Mrs. Joseph Bourdela's. Among the gifts were two quarts of blueberries picked by the small grandsons and a beautiful birthday cake. A very pleasant evening was spent by all.

Pictures Show Effects on Tires.

Slow motion pictures of the type that have amused movie fans by slowing down swiftly moving bodies to the point where every action may be analyzed have been utilized by a tire company for a scientific study of just what happens when a heavily loaded motor truck climbs a curb, drops off an elevation or bumps over a railroad track. This is the first time this very valuable form of photography has been used by a tire company. Among the questions the pictures will aid in solving are the effects of heavy blows on highways, trucks, loads and tires.

Flax Preparing—Frank Connolly, Mrs. Scannell, Mrs. Cole.

Bleach House—William Ring, James Murray.

Selecting—Charles Fettes, John Deyermund.

Office—Arthur Cole, George Page, Misses Florence Larkin, Hattie McCoubrie.

Officers, general committee and Miss Harriet Johnson of the Hillside.

Blueberries on "Worthless" Land

Luscious blueberries—many of which are three-fourths of an inch in diameter—that sell for $10 a bushel! Such is the product secured by a New Jersey grower, whose principal business has been growing cranberries but who more recently has taken up the cultivation of blueberries. At present he has 20 acres which he has planted, in part, with carefully selected wild blueberry stock and, in part, with hybrids furnished by the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. Not only are the berries on this tract of very high quality but the yield is prolific, the older plants producing at the rate of nearly 100 bushels to the acre. The plantation is situated at Whitesbog, near Browns Mills.

The success of this grower is but one instance of what is being done commercially by men who are utilizing the information supplied by the Department of Agriculture scientists. The latter have made a study of blueberry culture for several years and are able to furnish data regarding the best varieties and the most suitable soils. Of particular significance is the fact that blueberries thrive best on peat and sand soils, so acid as to be considered worthless for ordinary agriculture. Thus through blueberry culture it is possible to utilize many tracts which have been regarded as especially hard and unpromising.

Lady Victory Lays Lavishly

Poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture practice as well as preach. Their recommendations to poultrymen are based on actual experience. At the department's experiment farm at Beltsville, Md., is a flock of more than 6,000 birds whose thriving condition and good egg production is evidence of the practicability of the specialists' poultry doctrine. In this immense flock there is one hen—Lady Victory they call her, though officially she is No. 408—who has been exhibited at many poultry shows and has taken many prizes. This is the enviable laying record which she has made: In her pullet year she laid 214 eggs, and in the first five years laid a total of 779 eggs. Lady Victory is now in her sixth year, hale and hearty and still laying eggs at a good fast clip.

PEN OF THE REVOLUTION

1743—April 13, born at Shadwell, Va.
1767—Admitted to the bar.
1769-74—Member of House of Burgesses.
1774-76—Member of congress.
1776-79—Member Virginia assembly.
1779-81—Governor.
1783-84—Member of congress.
1784-89—Minister to France.
1790-93—Secretary of state.

THOMAS JEFFERSON as much as

Abraham Lincoln.

Was nursed at the breast

Of the unexhausted West.

At the time of his birth beneath one of its foothills the Blue Ridge of Virginia was the American frontier. The farm on which he was born had been cleared in the wild forest by his pioneer father when the smoke of a neighbor's chimney hardly could be seen from his cabin door.

When he rode east, with his darling fiddle under his arm, to be a student at William and Mary college, the tall, slender, sandy-haired, snub-nosed, freckled-faced seventeen-year-old boy of the frontiersman never had seen a mansion, a church or a village of twenty houses, and he looked with a stranger's eyes upon the baronial pride and display of the old families who formed the viceregal court at Williamsburg.

To support the large family of his mother on their too small farm Jefferson turned to the law. In seven years at the bar he doubled his estate and increased his slaves to 400. Buying the little mountain at whose feet he was born, he built upon its summit from plans of his own drawing, with bricks of his own making and with wood of his own cutting, the noblest house in all Virginia. There at Monticello he made his home ever after.

Jefferson's law practice continued rapidly to grow until it amounted to $2,500 a year, when he abandoned it forever to prosecute George III in the great and general court of mankind. He had heard the first call of the Revolution while a law student in Williamsburg. Its clarion had been ringing in his ears ever since he stood, an eager looker-on, in the door of the house of burgesses. He saw Washington in his seat and he saw his own friend, Patrick Henry, a fiddling Virginian like himself, holding the floor amid cries of treason as he invited the king to profit by the example of Caesar, who had his Brutus, and Charles I, who had his Cromwell.

The sword, the tongue and the pen of American freedom were well met that memorable day. After the pen had waited twelve years for its turn to speak Jefferson sat in the congress at Philadelphia. The squire of Monticello was a silent member, as silent as the squire of Mount Vernon. Opportunity and duty went straight to those two speechless congressmen as the needle leaps to a loadstone.

After serving as governor of Virginia and member of congress Jefferson was sent as minister to the court of France. "You replace Doctor Franklin," the Count Vergennes said to him on his arrival in Paris. "I succeed him," the new envoy happily replied; "no one can replace Doctor Franklin."

Six weeks and a day after he had seen that old France of the Bourbons crash beneath the walls of the Bastille Jefferson left Paris to become our first secretary of state. Taking his seat at the right of Washington he was face to face across the cabinet table with Alexander Hamilton, the secretary of the treasury.

By nature and training the two were as opposite in their political opinions as in their chairs, and they found themselves, as Jefferson said, "pitted like fighting cocks." As they fought and the feathers flew a great crowd collected behind each to urge on its favorite in that cocking main over which Washington had the unhappiness to preside. Quickly all the people in the land took one side or the other and formed themselves into the two political parties which with changing names and changing disputes have divided the country to this day.

A MAN AFOOT

1797-1801—Vice president.
1801—Inaugurated third president, aged 57.
1803—Purchased Louisiana.
1807—Enforced Embargo act.
1809—Retired to Monticello.
1826—July 4, died, aged 83.

THE furious storm aroused by the combat between Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton, the greatest gladiators to face each other in the arena of American politics, makes our recent campaigns seem like sunshowers. Hamiltonians scorned to eat and drink, and sometimes even to pray, with the Jeffersonians. To give a daughter in marriage with one of them was almost as abhorred as miscegenation.

Nothing else so stirs the angry passions as a conflict of classes or of sections. This was both doubly bitter. An almost solid South united with the Northern masses in a common dread of a strong government and in a common hostility to the old ruling caste in the middle states and New England. The new parties called themselves Federalists and Republicans.

In the first battle, when those parties fought for the chair of Washington in 1796, the result was so close that Jefferson came within two electoral votes of winning the presidency against Adams. In the second battle, which was waged in 1800, he beat Adams.

Contrary to the familiar story of his hitching his horse to the capital fence, Jefferson walked to his inauguration and afterward walked back to his boarding house, which was only a few hundred yards away. This man, afoot, dreamer and theorist, quietly ushered in that day a more lasting revolution than a man on horseback could have wrought with a sword and whiff of grapeshot.

Believing that revolutions should begin at home Jefferson revolutionized the White House by casting aside the ceremonials which had been adopted in a feeble imitation of kingly courts. Opening the doors to all, without regard to social classifications and without order of precedence, his rule was "first come, first served." Determined that the president, as he said, should cease to be a personage, he stopped the custom of celebrating a president's birthday, never made a public tour, did his own marketing and went and came like any other citizen. Although no successor has thrown a British minister into a fit of indignation by receiving him in slippers, Jeffersonian simplicity rather than Washingtonian courtliness remains the standard of presidential conduct.

It was the strange fortune of this most thoroughgoing pacifist to find himself at the helm in the midst of a world at war. When the globe was bristling with bayonets until it looked like a porcupine, he calmly announced that peace was his passion, and started out by cutting down his little army one-half and by talking of hauling up his seven warships. His only interest in the Napoleonic struggle was to keep out of it.

Nevertheless while the military powers were fighting over little islands and provinces and drenching Europe with their blood, this most un military president, without firing a shot, gathered in far richer spoils than the victors in twenty-five years of warfare divided among themselves at the congress of Vienna. As Jefferson's election was a bloodless revolution, his purchase of the immense empire of Louisiana, which doubled the territory of the United States, was a bloodless conquest, the greatest peaceable annexation the world ever saw. Having made it, the flag was no more than hoisted on the farther bank of the Mississippi than he dispatched Lewis and Clark and Captain Pike boldly to spy out the unexplored rivers and mountains of the new soil, so honestly won, and from which so many free states were to spring.

Jefferson is the only president who remained the leader of his party after leaving the White House. Indeed, the Democrats never have ceased to swear allegiance to his spirit.

UNION PATRIOTIC MEETING

Rev. Mr. Hopkin spoke as follows:

"There is probably no word in the English language more commonly used to-day than the word 'Loyalty.' Everywhere, loyalty to American ideals and institutions is being taught and preached. One great organization composed of returned soldiers is so eager to attest its loyalty that it has adopted as its slogan 'One hundred per cent American.' This of course, is significantly splendid, and I am sure we are all of opinion that a man who is really one hundred per cent American is a high type of citizen indeed. Such a man would not only purchase Liberty Bonds, subscribe to the various patriotic funds, assume a certain posture when the flag is carried by, or when the band strikes up a national air, but he would also stand as a sworn enemy of tyranny, despotism, greed, selfishness and intolerance.

"In short, the citizen who is one hundred per cent American would manifest the spirit of the Pilgrim Fathers, and would always place the rights of man before the rights of property or any other rights, real or imaginary, anywhere and everywhere within our country's bounds. The Pilgrim Fathers resisted to the death those who oppressed humanity, and lived and died for common human rights. They consecrated their lives to the cause of folk; they would rather have hung upon the gallows tree than be false to the sacredness of human personality. They hated oppressors and ever stood up for the oppressed. They hated injustice, loved righteousness and fearlessly championed the cause of the blessed rights of men.

"They said, 'In America we shall know no such condition as ruler and vassal. Here all men shall be equals, with the guaranteed opportunity to live a life that shall not infringe on a like liberty of our fellow-men.' In the cabin of the 'Mayflower' these brave pioneer Americans entered into a solemn compact, and there covenanted that no laws should ever be enacted which gave to any man, or group of men, special rights and privileges, but that every law should be made for the common good. The 'Mayflower Compact' is the first recorded social covenant among men giving equal privileges to all.

"The man who is one hundred per cent American will walk in the footsteps of these first Americans. He will not only wear a button or a badge, salute a flag and stand when the 'Star Spangled Banner' is played, but will stand as the sworn enemy of all oppression and injustice. He will ever guard unflinchingly the common rights of men; he will have a passionate respect for folk—ordinary, every-day folk; he will care nothing for brands, insignia, dress, money or social position. The loyal American will ever be loyal to the idea for which his country stands, the idea of true democracy, government of the people, by the people and for the people. This is the only loyalty which is worth while.

"It is ideas that have made the countries of the world what they are. China is China because of the loyalty of the Chinese to the idea of ancestral worship. India is India because of its idea of loyalty to the idea of caste; Britain is Britain because of her idea of liberty; the United States is the United States because of her idea of democracy. Ideas are the only things that can never be destroyed; the only things to which men dedicate their lives. The loyal American is he who is true to the idea of democracy—government of the people, by the people, for the people.

"The traitors to America are not those who openly denounce her, but the schemers, advertisers and pretenders. I have found in the course of my ministry that those who talk most glibly about religion are the most insincere; so those who prate the loudest about loyalty are those who actually do the least for their country.

"The loyalty of the men of the 'Mayflower' was founded upon their loyalty to God. This primary loyalty, was at once the basis and the inspiration of every other loyalty which their lives revealed. May I be permitted to say that I believe it is because of the weakening in society of loyalty to God that all other loyalties worth-while are imperiled? Those who would eliminate God from modern thought are cutting at the tap-root from whence all other loyalties spring.

"Someone calls loyalty the trying place between God and the human soul. It is the very testing place of truth. It is more than a morality; it is a religion. No man can be truly loyal to any cause without strengthening and advancing the spirit of loyalty everywhere. The essential thing in loyalty to one's country or cause, is the giving up of the personal interest for the benefit of the group.

"Our country calls and calls today for citizens imbued with this spirit, the spirit which seeks not its own good, but the good of others; the spirit of the Pilgrim Fathers who braved the dangers of the unknown deep and landed amid a thousand perils because of their unflinching loyalty to the great idea for which this country ever since then has stood.

"To have a cause, my brothers, and to be loyal to it is the great saving force in the lives of men, in communities and in nations. This gives to life a definite purpose and restrains us from giving way to temptations which beset us on every side. It isn't because of troubles that assail from the outside that men go to pieces, but because of that inner trouble, disloyalty to the Heavenly vision.

"There is only one degree of manhood higher than one hundred per cent American and that is found in men who are one hundred per cent Christian, the best men beneath the heaven's blue. To create Christianity is the whole duty of the Church. But, alas, the Church has been and is to-day far more eager to create sectarians than to create Christians. It was doing the same thing in Jesus' day, and against such a practice he uttered these terrible words, 'Woe unto you Pharisees and hypocrites, for you compass sea and land to make one convert and when he is made he is two-fold more a child of hell than yourselves.' This is a frightful condemnation, but alas every thoughtful man knows it to be true.

"It isn't loyalty to a sect or creed or form we need to teach, but loyalty to the Christ ideal. The late Dr. Josiah Royce, in his little book, 'The Philosophy of Loyalty,' says, 'In loyalty, when loyalty is properly defined, is the fulfillment of the whole moral law. You can truthfully center your entire moral world about a rational conception of loyalty. Justice, charity, industry, wisdom, spirituality are all definable in terms of enlightened loyalty.'

"Much that is labelled loyalty in the world to-day is basest counterfeit. I know folk who talk glibly and loudly about the beauties and excellencies of their city and imagine that in doing this they are showing loyalty towards it while real loyalty manifests itself not in empty talk but in sacrificial service in behalf of those things which alone make a city truly great.

"I know folk who wave flags and sing alleged patriotic songs and assume a certain posture of the body when the band plays certain airs, and who are scrupulously careful to observe every possible outward demonstration and who call this loyalty, and shallow-minded folk around them are satisfied, but loyalty to one's country is infinitely deeper and more practical than all that. It involves the giving of one's self to some cause that makes for the country's betterment. It involves the paying of taxes in the spirit of cooperation and mutual responsibility. It involves respect for the country's laws and the devotion of one's life to the strengthening of the national idea.

"Loyalty to one's country involves preference, but not exclusiveness. The loyal citizen does not hate other countries in order to show his love for his own any more than a man needs to hate other men's wives in order to show his love for his own. The man who is truly loyal to his own land will have kindest feelings toward other lands.

"The truly loyal citizen is never guided in his conduct by his own impulses, but by the necessities of the cause he has espoused. Loyalty is absolutely devoid of selfishness. The loyal man surrenders his private self-will, controls himself, is in love with his cause and is active in its support. The man who devotes himself to any cause in the hope of winning some personal advantage has yet to learn the alphabet of loyalty. To be truly loyal is to seek first the welfare of the community. Loyalty is the fundamental social virtue; its presence makes society coherent; its absence means social disintegration.

"I am a citizen of this country through choice, not through accident of birth, and because I am a citizen I owe to this country the obligation of loyalty, the fundamental principle of our national life. I must be loyal to the national idea, the idea which our Pilgrim Fathers planted on America's soil. 'Someone has recently written, 'The fundamental national weakness of the United States is distrust of our government. To command its human forces, the government must have the confidence of the people. It must be organized and managed in such a manner as to make efficient action practicable. This end has not been attained. Our government is not trusted. Our common business is conducted not in a spirit of cooperation, but by agencies which distrust one another, and the people distrust everybody and everything political or governmental.'

"We may not like these charges, but who would dare to say that they are not true? In my daily contact with men I have discovered that there is everywhere a deplorable distrust of the press. The common people seem to have lost all confidence in its truthfulness and unselfish loyalty. I find everywhere too, that the common people have very little confidence in our courts of justice. This is surely a pitiable condition, for it only helps to deepen and broaden the prevailing distrust.

"No State built upon such a foundation can permanently endure. We pride ourselves upon our democracy, but I declare to you the democracy which is popular with us to-day is the kind which seeks its bond of union in mutual distrust. This will not do! It has got to be changed! And the change can never be brought about through the group-singing of alleged patriotic airs. It cannot be brought out through the enactment of more laws.

"Since the welfare and peace of our country depend upon loyal citizens, it is surely the first duty of every man who loves this land and the ideas for which it stands to so live in the presence of his fellows that he shall radiate that thing which to-day we so much lack, namely, confidence in the fundamentals upon which our country stands. We must be trusted ourselves. And we must give to every other man the same measure of trust which we demand for ourselves. We must think about our neighbors, as we want them to think about us. This matter of trust must be reciprocal. Because I want to be trusted, I must trust.

"I am inclined to believe that our system of party politics is largely responsible for much of the distrust that is everywhere around us. The primary business of the party politician is to create and cultivate distrust in the opposition.

"Every loyal American ought to endeavor to create and cultivate the spirit of genuine trust at least in those ideas which the Pilgrim Fathers planted upon our shores. Oh my brothers, let us silence in ourselves forever the carping criticism, the petty fault-finding which is all too common to-day. Let us be known as the sworn enemies of condition responsible for this state of affairs. We must live the life of trust if we would help others to be trustful. We must manifest that love for humankind which inspires loyalty in men in general and toward all those things which make for a better world.

"We can't lead to heights of patriotism beyond those to which we have attained ourselves. Only patriots can inspire patriotism. All the good in the world has come through the lives of good men and women. There is not a hair's weight of patriotic power in all the political platforms ever built, nor in all the principles ever penned. These have no value until they are expressed in human lives.

"The human factor is the decisive factor. He only is the loyal American who makes his life the medium through which loyalty of the highest type shall touch the lives of others. This is the only loyalty worth while, the only patriotism that produces patriots."

Everest Alexander Grieve of Edinburgh, Scotland, addressed his audience as "American cousins" and expressed his regret that there were on either side of the water any persons who should stir up enmity between England and America and gave assurance that the better class of people in England desired only friendship and cooperation between the two countries.

As perfect loyalty to the family, church, town and nation is an ideal to be earnestly sought, so an international loyalty is for the good of the world. Without a league of nations—not necessarily "The League of Nations" as it is now formulated—the predicted calamities compared with which the last war will be but the merest trifle.

He then spoke on the "Secret of Success" saying that success for men or nations is to be achieved through a definite conviction that something is to be done for the world and God with a purpose to accomplish it combined with a spirit of renunciation and the will to endure to the end.

He cited as examples the lives of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Garibaldi, and pointed out that although the largeness of the ideals of these men might not be given except to great leaders, yet because of their inspirations, hundreds and thousands of smaller men became fired with the same ideals and convictions. Neither are men necessarily called to the support of new causes but often to an old cause where work needs to be done.

Men and nations who have the power of seeing the invisible, and despoiling themselves strenuously with a high-souled purpose to a great cause and enduring to the end will achieve success.

Raw Silk Prices Lower

The failure of the 74th National (Mog) Bank of Yokohama has resulted in a further demoralization of the raw silk market, and prices in the New York market at the end of last week were down to the basis of $6.75 a pound, as compared with $16.25 at the peak of the market in January.

Production of silk goods is now at a very low ebb, since the mills as a whole must work on raw material purchased at about twice the present market and manufacturers are not willing to meet buyers' ideas of replacement values based on the current price of raw silk. On firm orders they can probably average up this item and book business on a lower price level. For the present, however, they prefer to keep down both orders and production until the uncertainties in the outlook for labor, raw material and consumption are cleared away.

ANDOVER, MASS.

Fourth of July in Andover was a comfortable and happy day, with no fire alarms, no accidents from explosives, and but one automobile accident, in spite of the tremendous amount of traffic. The sensitive were even delivered from the nerve-racking ringing of bells.

Considering that there was no official celebration planned, there was a generous display of fireworks in the evening, and in all parts of the town one might have seen family and neighborhood groups where young and old were experiencing together the joys of all kinds of fireworks from pin wheels and sparklers to red fire, rockets and Roman candles.

For those who enjoy a crowd there was the band concert and bonfire in Shawshen village. The bonfire was a wonderful sight for miles around and the fine display of fireworks in Lawrence was not lost on her neighbors.

In the afternoon ten young men from the Y. M. C. A. of Lawrence, gave an exhibition of swimming and the band concert and dance in the evening were enjoyable to all.

Owing to a motor breakdown, the Y. M. C. A. boys did not arrive at the scheduled time, but those who stayed until they arrived beheld a very clever exhibition of water sports, a tilting contest in which several Ballardvale boys took part, caused much excitement. The finals were executed by John Platt and Joseph Stevenson for Ballardvale, against Belsie and Hale of the Y. M. C. A., and the latter won the contest after about an hour's fun for the spectators.

An impromptu ball game in the morning between the married and single men resulted in a victory for the latter, due probably, to the faithful practicing which they have been doing.

The score was 15 to 1 and the lineup of the teams was as follows: Married men: Bryant, Sparks, H. Platt, Wrigley, McKeon, O'Donnell and Fleury, Donta, Davis and Golbath. Single men: Riley, Clinton, McIntyre, Buckley, J. Platt, Cronin, Matthews, Setevenson and Conkey.

In the evening a splendid band concert by the Arlington Mill band was given and almost everyone in the village was present to enjoy this. The bandstand was very prettily decorated with flags and red, white and blue paper. The program was as follows:

March, Daughters of America
Overture, Morning, Noon and Night
Waltz, Dolores
Duet, Norma

Descriptive, Uncle Tom's Cabin. Old Negro melodies and Southern ditties.

Popular favorites, "Daranelle", "Let the Rest of the World Go By"

Solo, The Lost Chord
Descriptive, The Night Alarm
Selection, H. M. S. Finamore

Songs of Uncle Sam—Star Spangled Banner

The dance which followed the band concert was attended by a large gathering of local and out-of-town people. Ice-cream cones were served by the social committee of the B. V. V. I. S.

The committee in charge of the program served lunch to the young men who took part in the swimming contests and they were made cordially welcome at the band concert and dance, afterward.

They came free of charge to the celebration, and the only money paid out was for the tilting contest.

The program of water sports: 20-yard dash.

Demonstration of strokes: Broad stroke, overhand side; underhand side; crawl stroke, Australian crawl for speed; trudgen stroke for long distance.

Demonstration of life saving: Hands clutched above and below water; gripped around waist and neck; towing non-swimmer on back; on front; diving from surface of water for drowning person.

Diving—Tilting contest.

The day was ideal for every kind of sport and the river was dotted with canoes during the afternoon.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. L. G. Buck, chairman; Mrs. William Matthews, Mrs. John Haggerty, Mrs. Ernest C. Edmunds, Miss Mary Gaegan, Miss Marion Matthews and Miss Beatrice Buckley. They certainly worked hard for the success of the affair and deserve all the credit they received.

Bradlee Mothers' Club to Entertain

The Bradlee Mothers' Club will hold a basket picnic in the grove next Wednesday. Start will be made for the grove at ten o'clock, when the mothers will meet the Andover Mothers at the train and escort them to the grounds.

Sports will be held in the afternoon and a general good time is anticipated. Mothers please bring your thimbles, as work on a quilt will be done.

Dr. Abbott has taken out papers in Andover, North Andover and Middleton, which have been signed by many men prominent in political, professional and business circles. He is also in receipt of many personal letters indorsing him as a candidate for this office. The nomination papers are now filed with the Town Clerk and persons who wish to sign them may do so by calling at his office at the Town House.

William Miller of North Andover, an overseas veteran, and past commander of North Andover Post of the American Legion has also announced his candidacy.

The local post of the American Legion also has an article asking for an appropriation of $2000 for the publication under its auspices of a history of the activities, both civilian and military, of the people of Andover in the Great War. Dr. C. M. Fuess, historian of the Post, has been asked to compile material for this proposed work.

Try-Out for Olympic Games

Boston is certainly fortunate in having the final Olympic try-outs and American championships combined here on the 10th and 17th. In ordinary years, the American championships are always to some extent either Eastern or Western or far Western because the distances in this country are so magnificent that it is impossible except for an extraordinary occasion for the entire country to be represented at any annual meet.

But this year the Olympic Committee are sending to Boston for the try-outs the best men that competed in Pasadena, Chicago, New Orleans and Philadelphia. The winners in these various try-outs will come together here and it should be the greatest athletic meet that has ever been held in this country.

Not an event will be without its galaxy of stars. Thus Bostonians must get their tickets early for the stadium should for once be too small to handle the great crowd that will no doubt desire to see the Olympic representatives in action. Never in the history of track sports in America was the demand for tickets as great as for these try-outs.

Applications for seats should be sent to Geo. V. Brown at Boston Athletic Association, Boston, Mass.

But it is not only a question of training; it is also a question of using training to the best of one's ability. Most men and women do not realize how difficult it is in an office or factory to find people who can be depended on to get things done, who will go through with their work in spite of difficulties, who will do even more—the unusual—and will see that the thing is done

Business is like Boxing

Training is a winning factor in competition. You may have heard of the tenderly-bred young man who shipped on a submarine chaser on which the crew were a hard-fisted set. His mate immediately nicknamed him "Saint Peter" and would have made his cruise unendurable had he not been trained to box by experts. His tormentors soon came to appreciate the "saint's" superior skill with the gloves and let him respectfully alone. But his boxing ability was not put to the real test until he faced the champion of the Northeastern Division; in the third round of the match he knocked out his opponent and won the new nickname of "Wild Cat Pete."

"Wild Cat's" victory was not due simply to the fact that he was well-trained, for his opponent had thorough training too; he won because he had used his training to the best of his ability.

Business is like boxing; there is constant sparring, feinting and giving and taking of hard knocks in the business world. The person with training knows how to ward off a blow, how to take advantage of every opportunity that arises. Men and women who have dropped the responsibility of the twenties to take up the responsibility of the thirties realize this. They see other men and women, better equipped with knowledge of their work getting ahead, passing them by. They ask anxiously, "Shall I be making reasonable earnings in a few years? How shall I provide for my family and old age if I do not make some advance soon?" Their chances of advancement are dwindling and unless they exert themselves they will be forced to continue in their present position as long as they can "hold down the job."

Many men and women over thirty are constantly increasing their ability to support themselves and those dependent on them by continuing their enrollment in University Extension courses; indeed, the average age of the students in this Division is over thirty.

But it is not only a question of training; it is also a question of using training to the best of one's ability. Most men and women do not realize how difficult it is in an office or factory to find people who can be depended on to get things done, who will go through with their work in spite of difficulties, who will do even more—the unusual—and will see that the thing is done

RIGHT. The person who makes the best use of the instruction he has received does these things! If he has not yet completed his course in correspondence, or evening school work, he prepares his papers conscientiously and does not throw over his course because it is harder than he expected. He is willing to spend more time than he had planned to spend on his course, because he feels that the gain is worth the extra effort. He is determined, furthermore, to finish his course.

Some time in the future, competitors will challenge you to fight for your position. Then you will need the help of all the training you have received to hold your own against the attacks which always come when men and women have spent long years in one branch of business or industry.

Telephone Wire a Windfall to Belgian Farmers

Telephone wire has been one of the most lucrative crops the farms of Flanders have produced since their fields were made desolate by shellfire and artillery barrage. And the crop has been a bumper one, yielding an average of twenty bushels to the acre.

When first confronted by the necessity of clearing their fields of the debris and destructive after-effects of war, the Belgian peasants looked rueful. Network upon network of telephone wires, once the lines of communication between the battery positions, observation posts and field headquarters of the opposing armies, were now hopelessly tangled masses of copper, covering once carefully tilled gardens. Before the drudgery of reclaiming the land could be undertaken, these miles of telephone wires must be untangled and cleared away.

But when it became evident that the wire was worth almost its weight in gold in a market shut off for months of its normal supply of raw copper, the peasants went eagerly to their tasks. And when the thousands upon thousands of miles of wire were finally wound up and disposed of, the proceeds were substantially greater than would have accrued from a regulation crop of farm produce. This money, together with the food and clothing distributed by the American Red Cross among the farmers of the war zone, has done much to put these thrifty people upon their feet again, as they bend their shoulders to the seemingly endless task of bringing their shell-pitted farms and ruined homesteads into the semblance of their normal condition.

Bamboo a Dual Purpose Plant

Nebuchadnezzar has attracted some centuries of curiosity as a grazing human, but he deserves no credit for the unique quality of his exploit. The Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, asserts that the natives of the Far East were eating grass in the form of edible bamboo sprouts long before the scion of Babylonian royalty adopted the diet.

And now the tender sprout of the bamboo, prepared for the table in the same manner as asparagus, is declared to be a delicious spring vegetable for American tables.

It probably is news to most Americans to learn that there are several bamboo plantations of undoubted value already established in Georgia and Louisiana. Bamboo, according to scientists, is not a tree, but a giant grass. It grows like asparagus, the new plants forming from the original roots. The bamboo sprout shoots up at the incredible rate of a foot a day, and when mature has a stem 4 inches in diameter and 50 feet high. It requires no cultivation. The grown timber has an infinite number of industrial uses owing to the light composition of the wood and its long, tough fibers. It can be used for barrel hoops, ladders, trellises, etc.

It is a valuable crop. In 1902 the leading Japanese growers estimated an annual profit of $50 an acre from the sale of the edible sprouts and grown timber. Present conditions would warrant a much larger profit. An acre of bamboo will produce about 1000 edible shoots each spring and will continue the production for 40 or 50 years without being renewed.

More general introduction is urged for the South Atlantic, Gulf and Southern Pacific States where conditions for bamboo culture are favorable.

TOWN WARRANT

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.
ESSEX, SS.

To either of the Constables of the Town of Andover, Greeting:

In the name of the Commonwealth you are hereby required to notify and warn the inhabitants of said town who are qualified to vote in town affairs to meet and assemble at the Town House, in said Andover, on Tuesday, the twentieth day of July, 1920, at 7.30 o'clock p.m. to act on the following articles:—

Article 1.—To see if the town will accept the provisions of Chapter 475 of the Acts of 1920 in relation to the construction of a new bridge on Haverhill street over the Shawshen River under the direction of the County Commissioners.

Article 2.—To see if the town will appropriate the sum of $12500 to meet its part of the cost of said new bridge over the Shawshen River and authorize the Treasurer, with the approval of the Selectmen, to borrow said sum by the issuance of bonds or notes of the town in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 475 of the Acts of 1920.

Article 3.—To see if the town will appropriate the sum of forty thousand dollars ($40,000) for the purpose of extending the sewerage system from its present terminus near Stimpson Bridge to Haverhill Street in Shawshen Village (so called) and authorize the Treasurer, with the approval of the Selectmen, to borrow the same by issuing bonds or notes of the town on petition of the Board of Public Works.

Article 4.—To see if the town will appropriate four hundred dollars ($400) for the improvement of street lighting in Shawshen Village, so called, upon petition and recommendation of the Street Lighting Committee.

Article 5.—To see if the town will vote to install two new boilers in the Town House to replace the present boilers which have been condemned by the Hartford Boiler Insurance Company, and appropriate a sum of money therefor, on petition of the Board of Selectmen.

Article 6.—To see if the Town of Andover will appropriate the sum of two thousand dollars ($2000) to the American Legion Post No. 8 for the printing and publication under its auspices of the history of the military and civilian activities of the Town during the Great War, on petition of Andover Post No. 8 of The American Legion.

Article 7.—To transact any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

And you are directed to serve this warrant by posting attested copies and publication thereof seven days at least before the time of said meeting, as directed by the By-Laws of the town.

Hereof fail not and make return of this warrant with your doings thereon at the time and place of said meeting.

Given under our hands this Eighth day of July, A. D. 1920.
